Simultaneous, Consecutive, and Sign Language Interpretation

Simultaneous interpreters offer real-time interpretation throughout the entire communication, often with the assistance of electronic interpretation equipment.

Consecutive interpreters speak after the source-language speaker has finished speaking, dividing the speech into segments or rendering the message in its entirety.

Sign language interpreters provide high quality interpretation between deaf or hard-of-hearing individual(s) in various situations and events.

Our pool of over 1,500 qualified, certified, and cleared interpreters support a variety of U.S. government missions worldwide.
